

DSC Dredge 2020 Dreducation® Class

Exceeds Attendee Expectations

RESERVE, LOUISIANA – On February 5th 2020, DSC Dredge held its annual Dreducation® Class at the Omni Royal Orleans in New Orleans, Louisiana. Industry expert and DSC's Director of Domestic Dredge Sales Charles Johnson conducted the dredge operators training course which was designed to educate and enable industry newcomers on how to become more productive and enable them to work more efficiently.

In developing this class, Johnson has drawn from the years he has spent gaining knowledge about every function of every piece of equipment on a dredge and the training is designed to be industry specific, but not brand specific, it covered the fundamentals of dredging with topics such as: the workings of centrifugal pumps; how to read a pump curve; dredge pump efficiency; types of excavators; pipeline size, velocity, friction and production; and reading gauges. Additional topics covered included booster pumping, water and slurry, project planning and dredging techniques.

This year, added to Johnson's outline was a brief introduction to DSC's revolutionary dredge the SHARKUDA®! He briefly touched on how this dredge not only revolutionizes the Industry but increases productivity by it's operators.

Surveys completed following the Dreducation® training showed 100% that this class went above and beyond every attendees expectations. The class included participants from all walks of professions; from operators, to owners, to support personnel. According to attendee Mike McKinney, the course was amazing, he further noted that he would highly recommend it to anyone in the dredging industry who is either looking to learn about dredging or expand their knowledge on the dredge operations. His only regret was it only lasted one day and wished it could be expanded. He continued to recommend it to persons and companies interested in growing.

DSC offers the Dreducation® Class once a year in New Orleans between mid-February and mid-June. Accommodations are always at a first-class Hotel, and DSC acquires a special room rate for attendees. DSC Dreducation® planning committee is already making arrangements for 2021.

DSC Dredge will be Exhibiting at the CONEXPO-CON/AGG 2020 International Tradeshow in Las Vegas, March 10th -14th showcasing its latest Dredge, the SHARKUDA® and groundbreaking dredge specific technology that will take the dredging industry to a whole new level!
